Fiscal Analysis

This measure would provide an avenue to request that Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation (OSBI) conduct certain homicide investigations. Officials from OSBI provided the following analysis:

Caseload per agent could increase anywhere from 23 to 46 additional death investigations per agent per year. Currently, each agent averages 2 of these type of case per year. The average cost per death investigation is around $256,000.00 at OSBI.

These additional death investigations are not predictable, however based on the estimates provided the additional cost to OSBI could range between $5,888,000.00 and $11,776,000.00 per year to OSBI. OSBI would need additional appropriations to handle the increased caseload; therefore, there would be a fiscal impact to the state within that range.
